India turned its diversity into strength of its democracy: PM Modi

MI News Service, New Delhi: Prime minister Narendra Modi has emphasised that India has been able to turn its diversity into the strength of its democracy and shown the world that democratic institutions and processes give stability, speed and scale to its development.

Inaugurating the 28th conference of Speakers and Presiding Officers of the Commonwealth here on Thursday, PM Modi also said that Indian democracy is like a large tree supported by deep roots.

"When India gained Independence, many doubted whether democracy could survive amidst the country's immense diversity. However, this very diversity in fact became the strength of Indian democracy," he said.

"There was also scepticism that even if democracy did take root, India would struggle to progress. Contrary to these doubts, India has demonstrated that democratic institutions and processes provide stability, scale, and speed to its development," PM Modi said.

The Prime minister also said that India has a long tradition of debate, dialogue and collective decision-making. In India, democracy means last mile delivery," he said.

PM Modi also said that India is strongly raising the concerns of the Global South on every global platform. "During its G20 Presidency as well, India placed the priorities of the Global South at the centre of the global agenda," he said.

About 60 speakers and presiding officers are attending the event being held at the Samvidhan Sadan in Parliament House complex here from January 15 to 16.

It is deliberating on a wide range of contemporary parliamentary issues, including the role of speakers and presiding officers, in maintaining strong democratic institutions.

The use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Parliamentary functioning, the impact of social media on Members of Parliament, innovative strategies to enhance public understanding of Parliament and citizen participation beyond voting, among others, are also being discussed at the conference.

29 more dreaded Naxalites surrender in Chhattisgarh

MI News Service, Raipur: Responding to the government appeal to shun the path of violence, another batch of 29 hardcore Naxalites surrendered before the police in Chhattisgarh's Sukma district on Thursday, a senior police official said.

"The cadres, all active as members of the frontal wings of the outlawed CPI (Maoist), turned themselves in before senior police and CRPF officials here under Poona Margem (from rehabilitation to social reintegration) initiative", Sukma Superintendent of Police Kiran Chavan said.

They were impressed by the state government's surrender and rehabilitation policy and decided to lay down their arms and shun the path of violence, he said adding that a huge cache of sophisticated arms and ammunition including some SLRs, double barrel guns, revolvers and live bullets were surrendered on the occasion.

Among the cadets is Podiam Budhra, head of Dandakaranya Adivasi Kisan Majdoor Sangathan (DAKMS - frontal wing of Maoists) in the Gogunda area, who was carrying a reward of Rs 2 lakh on his head. The other cadres were members of DAKMS, militia, and Janatana Sarkar wings of the Maoists, the official said.

The establishment of a security camp in the Gogunda area recently played a crucial role in the surrender. Following the setting up of the camp, intensified anti-Naxal operations, sustained pressure and continuous search operations significantly curtailed Maoist activities in the region, he said.

Gogunda area, owing to its difficult and remote terrain, was earlier considered a safe and strategic base for the Maoists' Darbha division.

Mamata Banerjee to lay foundation of Mahakal Temple, preparations gather pace

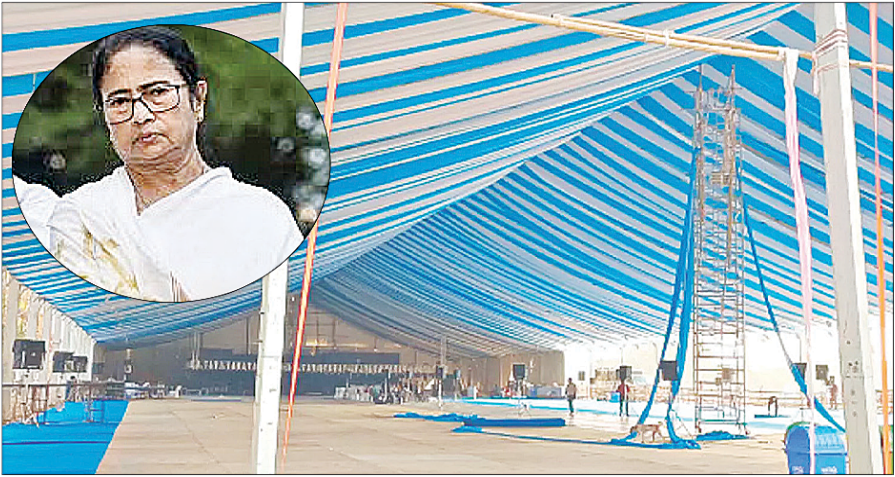

MI News Service, Siliguri: The much-awaited foundation stone of the Mahakal Temple at Matigara near Siliguri will be laid by Chief minister Mamata Banerjee on Friday, Siliguri mayor Gautam Deb confirmed on Thursday after a preparatory meeting with Darjeeling district administration officials.

Accordingly, preparations are in full swing for the stone-laying ceremony of the proposed Temple as the ceremony is scheduled to take place at 4 pm in the Matigara area.

According to official sources, the Chief Minister is scheduled to arrive at Bagdogra Airport at around 3 pm and proceed directly to the Matigara, the site of the programme. After completing the ceremony, she will stay overnight at the Kanyasree Guest House inside Uttarkanya here.

On January 17, the Chief Minister is expected to visit Jalpaiguri to inaugurate the newly constructed building of the Jalpaiguri Circuit Bench of the Calcutta High Court. Following the inauguration, she is expected to return to Kolkata on the same day.

As the Chief Minister is coming to Siliguri for laying the foundation stone of the Mahakal Temple, many eminent personalities will also attend the programme. The district administration is taking all necessary measures to conduct the ceremony peacefully. "I have personally visited the site several times to review the arrangements," said Gautam Deb, the Mayor of Siliguri.

The Mahakal Mahatirtha project was announced by the Chief Minister in October last year during her visit to Darjeeling. During that visit, she offered prayers at the historic Mahakal Mandir located at the Observatory Hill in Darjeeling. Talking to media after her visit to the Mahakal temple, the Chief minister had announced her plans to construct a grand temple in Siliguri. The new temple will be built on 18 acres of land in the Matigara area, opposite the City Centre Mall. The state government has provided the land free of cost. The project also includes a Convention centre and will house the largest Shiva idol in West Bengal. A Board of Trustee has already been formed to oversee the construction and management of the temple. Meanwhile, preparations are also on for the inauguration of the Jalpaiguri Circuit Bench building. Mayor Gautam Deb visited the site on Wednesday evening to inspect the ongoing arrangements.

According to the Siliguri mayor, the Mahakal Temple will be among the largest Hindu shrines in the country and is expected to become a major landmark near Siliguri. "It will be one of the biggest temples in the country. Once completed, it will open a new avenue for religious tourism in Siliguri and provide a significant boost to the local economy and surrounding areas," Deb said.

The West Bengal Housing Infrastructure Development Corporation Limited (HIDCO) is overseeing the execution of the project in coordination with the district administration and the state public works department (PWD).

The land earmarked for the temple was previously barren. The Siliguri Municipal Corporation has cleared large quantities of waste from the site.

An official source said once the remaining weeds and garbage were completely removed, the project area would be further expanded.

"It is expected that a large number of people from Siliguri and other districts of north Bengal will gather near the temple site during the foundation-laying ceremony. Arrangements have been made to accommodate around 10,000 people. LED screens and a public address system will also be installed for the convenience of the public," the source added.

Mumbai is key battleground, as Maharashtra votes for high-stakes civic polls

MI News Service, Mumbai: As Maharashtra headed to the much-hyped elections for 29 municipal corporations across the state today on Thursday, the main spotlight is focussed on Mumbai, where the BJP-led Mahayuti is locked in a do or die battle with the united Thackeray front for control of the cash-rich 'Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation' (BMC).

Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis has predicted that MNS leader Raj Thackeray would emerge as the biggest loser in his alliance with cousin and Shiv Sena (UBT) president Uddhav Thackeray.

He also dismissed the coming together of both NCP factions in Pune and Pimpri Chinchwad as merely a localised development.

Fadnavis rued that Deputy Chief Minister and NCP leader

A total of 3.48 crore voters are eligible to decide the fate of 15,931 candidates, including 1,700 in Mumbai and 1,166 in Pune.

Counting of votes will take place on January 16.

More than 25,000 police personnel, including senior officers, are deployed across Mumbai to oversee elections to the BMC and vote counting.

Except for Mumbai, the other 28 urban bodies have multi-member wards.

In a political turn ahead of the elections, estranged cousins Uddhav and Raj Thackeray reunited after two decades in their bid to consolidate Marathi votes, even as rival NCP factions forged a local alliance in Pune and Pimpri-Chinchwad.

In this election, the Opposition Congress has asserted its pres-

Ajit Pawar broke the rule that the alliance partners will not speak against each other.

CM Fadnavis led the ruling alliance's canvassing, traversing the state to campaign for candidates of the Mahayuti, which includes the BJP and the Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena.

NCP, the third partner in the Mahayuti, was strategically excluded to attract 'non-Hindu' voters, observers said.

This will be the Shiv Sena's first Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation election since the 2022 split, when Eknath Shinde broke away with a majority of the party's legislators, along with its name and symbol.

The undivided Shiv Sena had held sway over the country's as well as whole Asia's richest civic body for 25 years.

The Congress has joined hands with Prakash Ambedkar's Vanchit Bahujan Aghadi (VBA) and the Rashtriya Samaj Paksh in the state capital, even as it contests independently in Nagpur.

Elections to 29 municipal corporations are being held after a gap of over six years, with their terms having ended between 2020 and 2023.

Of these, nine fall within the Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR), the most urbanised belt in India.

Dal Lake freezes as Kashmir reels under severe cold for weeks

Pigeons during a cold winter morning at the frozen Dal Lake, in Srinagar

MI News Service, Srinagar: Parts of the famous Dal Lake in the summer capital of Jammu and Kashmir here and several water bodies in the picturesque valley completely froze on Thursday as sub-zero minimum temperatures across the region dropped further.

The Kashmir Valley is in the midst of 'Chilla-i-Kalan' -- a 40-day period of extreme cold, when the chances of snowfall are the highest. It began on December 21 and will end on January 30.

Srinagar recorded a low of minus 7.2 degree Celsius on Tuesday night, down from the minus 5.9 degree Celsius recorded the previous night, weather department officials said. However, Shoptian in south Kashmir was found to be the coldest place in the Valley, where the mercury settled at minus 7.8 degree Celsius.

Parts of several water bodies, including the famous Dal Lake, froze and covered with thick ice due to severe cold. Pahalgam, a popular tourist spot in south Kashmir, which also serves as one of the base camps for the annual Amarnath yatra, recorded a low temperature of minus 6 degree Celsius.

'Pollution forced me to pull out of India Open in Delhi': World No.3 shuttler

MI News Service, New Delhi: World No.3 shuttler Anders Antonsen has said that he has withdrawn from the ongoing India Open due to "extreme" air pollution in the national capital and copped a USD 5,000 fine from the Badminton World Federation (BWF) for his decision.

A four-time World Championships medalist, Antonsen's remarks came a day after fellow Dane Mia Blichfeldt also criticised the playing conditions at the USD 950,000 event. "Many are curious why I have pulled out of the India Open for the third consecutive year. Due to the extreme pollution in Delhi at the moment, I don't think it's a place to host a badminton tournament," Antonsen wrote on his Instagram page.

The Danish shuttler also shared a screenshot of Delhi's Air Quality Index reading on Instagram, which showed the AQI at 348 and categorised the conditions as hazardous. Delhi's air quality drops every year during winter due to varied reasons that include vehicular pollution, stubble burning in neighbouring Punjab and road dust.

The city is often engulfed in a thick layer of smog that has been described as dangerous by doctors. The India Open is being held at the Indira Gandhi Indoor Stadium after the Badminton Association of India (BAI) shifted

Air India cancels some US flights after closure of Iranian airspace

MI News Service, Mumbai: In the wake of sudden closure of Iranian airspace due to heightened tension in the region, Air India, was forced to cancel at least three flights to the US on Thursday and delayed some others to Europe.

Informing this Airlines sources here today said at least three flights — two from New Delhi to New York and Newark, and one from Mumbai to New York — have been cancelled because of the Iranian airspace closure.

In a post on X, the airline said that due to the emerging situation in Iran, the subsequent closure of its airspace, and in view of the safety of our passengers, flights overflying the region are now using an alternative routing, which may lead to delays.

Several international airlines including Indian carriers Indigo Go and Air India were impacted early on Thursday after Iran announced a sudden temporary closure of its airspace amid the escalation in tensions between Washington and Tehran.

With large-scale anti-government protests continuing unabated in Iran and the Iranian regime's violent crackdown that has left scores dead, US President Donald Trump has been threatening US intervention. Given the circumstances, there have been concerns that the US could carry out military strikes in Iran anytime soon.

Kolkata realtors seek tax relief, higher housing cap in Union Budget

MI News Service, Kolkata: Key real estate developers in Kolkata have urged Union Finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman to use the upcoming Union Budget to recalibrate the housing policies in line with rising land and construction costs, with key demands ranging from higher tax benefits for homebuyers to a long-pending revision of the definition of affordable housing.

Major industry players said revisiting price caps for affordable homes, rationalising GST on under-construction property and easing approval processes could significantly boost demand, particularly in the mid-income segment.

The Union Budget is set to be tabled on February 1, a Sunday.

According to Sushil Mohta, president of CREDAI West Bengal and chairman of Merlin Group, the sector wants reforms that reflect present-day market realities. "Revisiting the affordable housing definition, rationalising housing loan interest deductions and streamlining GST rates will significantly improve affordability and demand, especially for middle-income homebuyers.

He said a policy push for rental housing and wider access to formal housing finance is also very crucial amid rapid urbanisation.

Maheesh Agarwal, Managing Director of Puri Realty, pointed out that continued policy support through tax rationalisation and infrastructure spending remains critical.

"A re-evaluation of affordable housing price limits in line with rising land and construction costs, along with adjustments to GST on under-construction property, will enhance affordability," he said, stressing that simpler tax frameworks and incentives for first-time buyers would help stabilise the market and accelerate project execution.

Echoing similar concerns, Merlin Group MD Saket Mohta said construction costs have risen sharply since the introduction of GST in 2017, making further rationalisation necessary. He also called for raising the affordable housing price cap from Rs 45 lakh to around Rs 80-90 lakh and expanding unit size norms.

"Middle-income housing will be the key demand driver going into 2026, and supportive tax and policy measures are essential to sustain growth," he said.

Eden Realty MD Arya Sumant feels that the 2026-27 Budget must balance fiscal discipline with growth-oriented reforms. "Higher home loan interest deductions for mid-income and first-time buyers, an updated affordable housing definition, GST rationalisation and faster approvals will improve project viability and speed-to-market," he said, adding that sustained urban infrastructure investment would unlock demand across residential and commercial segments.

According to Sahil Saharia, CEO of Bengal Shristi Infrastructure Development Ltd, the time has come that focus should shift towards large, integrated developments.

"Policy support for mixed-use townships, rental housing and commercial hubs, along with faster clearances and digital single-window mechanisms, can help create self-sustained urban ecosystems and improve execution efficiency," he said.

Developers said clear and stable policies in the Budget could not only revive homebuyer confidence, but also attract long-term capital, ensuring sustainable growth of the real estate sector in eastern India.

Foreign Tourists Reinforce Gangasagar Mela's Place on Global Pilgrimage Map

Suman Ganguly: Sagar Island: The Gangasagar Mela has steadily emerged as a global pilgrimage destination, with the growing presence of foreign tourists adding an international dimension to the iconic religious event this year. Visitors from the United States, Europe, Russia and several other countries have been seen at the mela, underlining its rising stature on the world tourism map.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, in a post on her X handle two days ago, highlighted the visits of foreign tourists to the mela and noted that Gangasagar was no longer confined within national boundaries. She observed that the centuries-old pilgrimage has now attained international significance, drawing devotees and visitors from across the globe.

The Morning India came across one such instance that added a distinct international flavour to the mela — the visit of French brothers Felix and Rodrigues. However, they are not the only foreign visitors to Gangasagar this year. According to sources, tourists from the United States, Russia, Sweden, Switzerland and several other European countries have arrived at the pilgrimage site, many of them through ISKCON, even before the auspicious bathing dates.

Several foreign devotees not only took the holy dip at the confluence of the Ganga and the Bay of Bengal but also visited the Kapil Muni Ashram. Many were seen walking along the sea beach, singing devotional songs and immersing themselves in the spiritual atmosphere of the mela.

While the Centre continues to deliberate on granting national fair status to Gangasagar, observers point out that the increasing participation of foreign tourists clearly reflects its global reach. Despite the absence of official recognition, the mela has firmly secured its place on the international pilgrimage and tourism map.

Felix and Rodrigues first visited Kolkata nearly two years ago. During that trip, they travelled to various religious sites and visited the Kapil Muni Ashram at Gangasagar in May, when the beach was relatively quiet and free from the massive crowds typical of the mela period. After returning to France, they later learned about the Gangasagar Mela through the internet, where it is often described as the second-largest human congregation in India.

Fascinated by descriptions of how a "mini India" comes alive on the small island during the mela, the brothers decided to witness the spectacle themselves. They travelled again from Paris to Kolkata this year and headed straight to Gangasagar soon after landing.

The duo said they were overwhelmed by the scale and organisation of the mela. They plan to spend around ten days in the city and have already visited Gangasagar once ahead of the main bathing day. They intend to return again on Makar Sankranti to experience the peak-day atmosphere.

"We want to see how such a massive gathering takes place and what happens on that particular day," Felix said.

Even before Makar Sankranti, a steady flow of pilgrims has begun arriving at Gangasagar from across West Bengal and other states. Amid the swelling crowds, the French tourists were seen keenly observing the arrangements, clicking photographs and interacting with pilgrims. The illumination, hoardings carrying social messages and the sheer scale of the event left them visibly impressed.

"We had read about the mela on the internet, but only after coming here did we realise how grand the arrangements are," Felix said. "Unless you see it yourself, it is impossible to understand the enthusiasm of the people."

The brothers, both retired and well-travelled, said they had consciously set aside time this year to attend the Gangasagar Mela. While foreign tourists have visited Gangasagar in the past, locals believe it is rare for visitors to return specifically to witness the mela. The French brothers' repeat visit has therefore drawn attention, further reinforcing the Gangasagar Mela's growing global appeal.

Nipha outbreak fears rise, 82 under surveillance

MI News Service, East Burdwan: Concerns over a possible spread of the deadly Nipha virus in West Bengal have intensified as the number of identified contacts has surged sharply. The CHO of East Burdwan district on Wednesday confirmed that the contact-tracing list has expanded from 48 to 82 individuals within a single day, triggering fresh anxiety among health authorities.

According to CHO Jayaram Hembra, contact tracing of the Nipha patient had initially identified 48 individual up to Tuesday. However, further investigation and tracing on Wednesday revealed 34 more contacts, taking the total to 82. Of these, two individuals have tested positive for the virus. Health officials said that both positive cases are healthcare workers who were in close and prolonged contact with the infected patient while providing medical services. One of them, a house staff member from South 24 parganas, is currently admitted to Belegghata ID Hospital in Kolkata. "His condition is stable," the CHO said, adding that a nursing staff members who had shown mild symptoms is also now clinically stable. The sudden spike in the contact list has raised serious questions over containment and infection control measures, even as authorities insist that the situation remains under close monitoring.

Gangasagar Witnesses History as Transgender Sadhus Participate for the First Time

Suman Ganguly: Gangasagar: Amid the familiar haze of incense smoke, conch shells, and Vedic chants near Kapil Muni's ashram, this year's Gangasagar Mela marked a historic milestone. For the first time, transgender ascetics joined the age-old religious gathering, establishing their own akhara alongside the well-known Naga sadhus.

Five transgender sadhus and sadhvis, representing the Juna Akhara, took part in the mela. Their presence not only added a new dimension to the centuries-old festival but also sent a strong message against long-standing social discrimination.

Inside the akhara, the transgender ascetics performed ritual offerings in a lit fire pit, strictly following traditional customs. With red bindis on their foreheads, kajal-lined eyes, and rudraksha beads around their necks, their striking appearance drew attention, while their words reflected years of struggle and perseverance. Transgender sadhvi Vaishnavi Jagdambanandgiri said emotionally, "The path to God is open to everyone. We may be different in body, but our minds and faith are the same as everyone else's."

The sadhus spoke of painful childhoods marked by neglect from family and society, often forcing them to leave home at an early age. Recalling years of wandering, humiliation, and rejection, Shrimahant Charulata Avantikanandgiri said that the path of spiritual practice restored their dignity and self-respect. Finding shelter under the Juna Akhara, they now lead disciplined and spiritually guided lives.

Their participation has left a lasting impression on pilgrims. Alongside curiosity, many devotees approached the transgender sadhus with reverence to seek blessings. The ascetics said they are offering their blessings in the name of Goddess Bahuchara.

While transgender akharas have previously been established at events like the Kumbh Mela, their participation at Gangasagar for the first time has been hailed as a historic moment, signalling inclusivity and broader social acceptance within the spiritual community.

Assam rapist caught fleeing Kerala minor assault

MI News Service, Kharagpur: In a swift cross-state operation, GRP at Kharagpur arrested Abul Hossain (40), an Assam resident, for the alleged repeated rape of a minor girl in Kerala. The predator, who fled after the crime came to light, was apprehended at Dantan station in Paschim Medinipur while boarding an Assam-bound train, evading a nationwide alert. Abul Hossain had resided in a rented house under Kunnathunadu police station limits in Ernakulam district, Kerala, for work. Shockingly, the victim's home stood directly opposite his, enabling his monstrous access. Kerala Police Sub-Inspector Muralidharan revealed that Abul Hossain subjected the minor to brutal, repeated assaults, employing vicious threats—including death if she spoke out—to silence her.

BJP Illegally Occupying Singur Land for PM Meeting, DM to Take Action: Minister Becharam Manna

MI News Service, Gangasagar: Uncertainty has emerged over Prime Minister Narendra Modi's proposed public meeting at Singur on January 18 following allegations that the BJP is forcibly erecting a pandal on private agricultural land without the consent of landowners. The allegations were raised on Thursday by Minister Becharam Manna during a press conference at Gangasagar.

Manna claimed that land belonging to local farmers in Gopalnagar mouza was being used for the Prime Minister's rally without obtaining mandatory permission from the owners. "The Prime Minister of the country is expected to follow the law. If a public meeting is to be held on private land in Singur, the consent of landowners is essential. Unfortunately, that rule has been ignored," he said.

The minister alleged that at least 26 farmers whose land has been earmarked for the rally have submitted written complaints to the block development officer (BDO) and the local police, stating that neither verbal nor written consent was taken from them. According to Manna, the farmers have also sought legal action from the administration.

Displaying copies of the complaint letters, he said farmers including Dilip Kumar Koley, Mohit Kumar Koley and Sanatan Santra had clearly mentioned that the construction of the pandal and other preparations for the Prime Minister's meeting were carried out without their knowledge or consent.

"Singur's soil belongs to democracy-loving people. Leaders from different political parties regularly visit this area, but it is unfortunate that even the Prime Minister is not following established norms," Mr. Manna alleged.

He further said he would write to the district magistrate and the superintendent of police of Hooghly, seeking an immediate investigation and urging the administration to stop construction work until the issue is resolved. He also asserted that the Prime Minister should consider cancelling the rally, as holding a public meeting on land allegedly taken without farmers' consent goes against democratic principles.

The allegations were denied by local BJP leader Sanjay Pandey, who dismissed them as "false." "Anyone can make baseless allegations. There are legal ways to deal with such complaints. We are not worried about this. The Prime Minister's meeting will be held as scheduled on January 18," he said.

Gangasagar Draws Over 1.3 Crore Pilgrims as Holy Dip Continues

MI News Service, Gangasagar: Gangasagar Island continued to witness an overwhelming influx of pilgrims on Thursday, the second day of the holy bath following the main Makar Sankranti Shahi Snan, as the auspicious period extended this year. According to official estimates, around 1.3 crore pilgrims from across the country had visited Gangasagar by Thursday to take a ritual dip at the Sagar Sangam—the confluence of the Ganga and the Bay of Bengal—and offer prayers at the Kapil Muni Temple.

State Power and Housing Minister Aroop Biswas, present at the mela site, said one pilgrim, identified as Mritunjun Kumar Singh (61) from Bihar, died of a heart attack during the pilgrimage. He added that elaborate arrangements had been made to manage the massive footfall and ensure the safety of devotees. "Nearly 11 lakh pilgrims have been issued certificates for visiting Gangasagar. Thursday was the last day for the holy bath during the extended Shahi Snan yoga, which is why so many devotees arrived even today to take the dip," Mr. Biswas said.

Despite biting cold, dense fog, and low visibility during the early hours, lakhs of pilgrims thronged the beach since pre-dawn, chanting sacred hymns and immersing themselves in the icy waters. As per Hindu belief, bathing at the Sagar Sangam during Makar Sankranti cleanses sins accumulated over lifetimes and paves the way for salvation. Many pilgrims also performed shraddha, pind daan, and tarpan in memory of their ancestors. Mythology holds that King Dasharatha performed pind daan at Gangasagar, making it especially sacred for ancestral rites.

The religious fervour was further heightened by the presence of Jagadguru Swami Sri Nischalananda Saraswati, the 145th Shankaracharya of the Govardhan Peeth in Puri, who took a holy dip on Thursday. Ministers Pulak Roy (Public Health Engineering) and Sujit Bose (Fire and Disaster Management) also participated in the sacred bath.

The Gangasagar Mela grounds were abuzz with religious activities, with naga sadhus and saints from various akharas drawing large crowds. Kirtans, bhajans, and other rituals added to the spiritual ambience. Security and crowd management remained tight, with the South 24 Parganas district administration deploying police, civil defence personnel, disaster response teams, and lifeguards. CCTV cameras and drones were used for surveillance, while riverine transport was closely monitored to prevent mishaps.

By Thursday afternoon, thousands of pilgrims began returning to their native states, including Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Jharkhand, and Assam. The district administration announced a massive beach-cleaning drive on Friday from 11 a.m., involving around 3,000 beach guards, to restore the shoreline after peak bathing days. Officials urged pilgrims to maintain discipline and cooperate with authorities as the remaining days of the mela continue under strict safety and sanitation protocols.

ECI Rejects Proposal to Accept Madhyamik Admit Card as Valid Document for SIR

MI News Service, Kolkata: The Election Commission of India (ECI) has rejected a proposal to recognise the Madhyamik (Class 10) examination admit card as a valid document for the upcoming Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls scheduled for 2026. The decision was communicated to the Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) of West Bengal through an official letter issued on Thursday.

According to the Election Commission, the Madhyamik admit card does not figure in the list of documents approved for voter list revision under the guidelines issued on October 27, 2025. As a result, the Commission stated that it is unable to accept the proposal sent by the West Bengal administration seeking to include the Class 10 admit card as an acceptable proof during the revision process.

In its communication, the ECI made it clear that the verification of documents during electoral roll revision must strictly adhere to the pre-approved list specified in the existing guidelines. The Commission emphasised that no additional documents can be included beyond those already notified, as maintaining uniformity in the verification process is essential to ensure transparency, accuracy, and fairness in electoral procedures across the country. Consequently, the Commission confirmed that Madhyamik admit cards will not be accepted as valid documents during the forthcoming voter list revision exercise.

But after the security camp was established, the Maoist stronghold was effectively dismantled, the official said, adding that with this surrender, the Maoists' support system in the Darbha division has also been weakened.

Chavan appealed to all those associated with the outlawed Maoist organisation to give up violence, assuring them security and a respectable life.

Earlier, 63 Naxalites surrendered in the neighbouring Dantewada district on January 8, while 26 cadres shunned violence and joined the mainstream in Sukma on January 7.

More than 1,500 Naxalites surrendered in the state in 2025.

The Centre has resolved to eliminate Naxalism from the country by March 31 this year.

international airlines have also decided to by-pass the country's airspace as per flight tracking data. Some domestic air traffic, however, has resumed in Iran. Commercial Airlines usually try to avoid over-flying active conflict zones and high-risk regions in the interest of aviation safety. They also re-route their flight paths to avoid Iranian airspace, resulting in longer flight times and delays.

In a post on X, Air India said the decision was taken in view of passenger safety amid the emerging situation in Iran. Flights that normally overfly Iran are now using alternative routes, which may not be feasible for all services.

"Some Air India flights where rerouting is not currently possible are being cancelled," the airline said, regretting the inconvenience caused by the unforeseen disruption.

Air India typically uses Iranian airspace for flights to the US and Europe. The alternative route via Iraqi airspace significantly increases flight duration, and in some cases, aircraft do not have sufficient fuel capacity to operate nonstop US services, sources said.

The disruption comes as Air India is already operating longer westbound routes due to Pakistan's airspace closure.

Meanwhile, a Delhi-bound IndiGo flight from Tbilisi, Georgia, narrowly made it through Iranian airspace just before Tehran abruptly shut its skies, aviation data showed.

IndiGo flight 6E1808, which departed Tbilisi late on Wednesday night, passed over Iran at about 2.35 am on Thursday and landed in Delhi at 7.03 am, according to real-time tracking data.

The aircraft is believed to have been the last non-Iranian commercial plane in the air before Tehran's aviation authorities issued a Notice to Airmen (NOTAM) suddenly closing the country's airspace.

Abhishek Visits Nandigram for 'Sebaashray' Outreach Prog

MI News Service, Kolkata: Trinamool Congress (TMC) national general secretary and Member of Parliament Abhishek Banerjee reached Nandigram on Thursday afternoon to take part in a public service outreach programme titled 'Sebaashray-1'. His visit has drawn significant attention, not only for its welfare focus but also for its political implications, given the sensitive political backdrop of the region.

Abhishek arrived at Khodambari in Nandigram at around 2:45 pm. Avoiding large convoys and crowds, he chose to walk through the area, greeting local residents and interacting directly with people who had gathered at the venue. He was seen exchanging greetings with villagers and listening to their concerns, reflecting the programme's focus on grassroots engagement. During his visit, Abhishek inspected the 'Sebaashray-1' camp and was also scheduled to visit a second service camp in the area.

The 'Sebaashray' initiative aims to provide various welfare services to local residents under one roof, including assistance related to health services, government schemes, and grievance redressal. Abhishek spent time at the camp speaking to beneficiaries, enquiring about their problems, and reviewing the facilities on offer. According to party sources, he was keen to ensure that the services reached the intended beneficiaries efficiently. A press conference has been planned following the conclusion of the programme, where Abhishek is expected to address both the welfare initiative and broader political issues.

However, despite his presence, Abhishek did not formally inaugurate the 'Sebaashray' programme himself. Instead, on his instructions, the programme was inaugurated by members of families of martyrs from Nandigram, a move that many observers believe carries symbolic and political weight.

The Trinamool Congress has stated that the decision to organise the 'Sebaashray' camps in Nandigram was taken in response to repeated appeals from local residents. Party leaders emphasised that Abhishek extended the initiative beyond his parliamentary constituency of Diamond Harbour to reach people in Nandigram, underscoring the party's commitment to public welfare. The camps are being organised across two blocks of Nandigram and are scheduled to continue until January 30.

Throughout the visit, Abhishek was seen engaging with common people and party workers alike, reinforcing the outreach-driven nature of the programme. Political observers believe that while the initiative is framed as a service-oriented programme, Abhishek's presence in Nandigram conveys a broader political message ahead of future electoral contests.

Fire Breaks Out at Tire Shop Near Bonfield Road

MI News Service, Kolkata: Panic gripped parts of central Kolkata on Thursday afternoon after a fire broke out at a shop near Bonfield Road in the Burabazar area. The incident occurred in a densely populated commercial zone, triggering fear among shop owners, workers, and local residents. Thick plumes of smoke were seen rising from the area, prompting immediate concern about the possibility of the fire spreading to nearby establishments.

According to the fire brigade officials, the incident was reported at around 2:40 pm, following which five fire engines were rushed to the spot. Firefighters began operations promptly to contain the blaze and prevent it from spreading further in the congested market area. Later, two additional fire engines from Shibpur and Howrah were also pressed into service to strengthen firefighting efforts.

Preliminary investigations revealed that the fire originated at a roadside tire shop. Due to the presence of a large stock of rubber tires, the fire spread rapidly and intensified within a short span of time. The flames quickly engulfed the adjacent shops, causing extensive damage to property. The fire also spread to a Matador vehicle parked close to the shop, which caught fire and was completely gutted.

Sources from the fire department said that there was an acid storage facility located above the affected shop, raising serious concerns about the potential escalation of the incident. Firefighters managed to arrest the fire in the lower section before it could reach the acid godown, thereby averting a major disaster. Several people who were reportedly trapped on the upper floors were safely evacuated by the fire brigade personnel amid the rescue operation.

Eyewitnesses described scenes of chaos as shopkeepers hurriedly tried to salvage goods while police personnel cordoned off the area to facilitate firefighting operations. Traffic movement in and around Bonfield Road was temporarily disrupted as a precautionary measure to allow fire engines unhindered access to the site.

Union Minister of Culture and Tourism Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, along with Vice Chairman Nand Lal Thakur, inaugurated the new building of the Lalit Kala Akademi Regional Centre and the opening of the 3rd Print Biennale India in Kolkata on Thursday.

Kolkata Police Reroute App-Based Shuttle Buses to Ease Flyover Congestion

MI News Service, Kolkata: Heavy congestion caused by app-based shuttle buses during peak office hours on several major roads in south Kolkata has prompted the city police to impose fresh traffic restrictions. From Thursday, the Kolkata Police Traffic Department has prohibited the movement of app-based shuttle buses on the AJC Bose Road flyover and the Maa Flyover in an effort to ease congestion and restore normal traffic flow on these key corridors.

Traffic congestion was being reported daily at the start of office hours, particularly due to the high volume of shuttle buses operating from areas such as Joka, Thakurpukur, Sarsuna, Tollygunge, Jadavpur, Garia, Chella and Gariahat towards Salt Lake and New Town. Officials said that nearly 400 shuttle buses were attempting to cross the AJC Bose Road flyover and the Maa Flyover in quick succession every morning, leading to severe bottlenecks on both flyovers and slowing down overall vehicular movement.

To address the situation, the Kolkata Police held consultations with app-based shuttle service providers and subsequently worked out alternative routes for these buses. The revised routes have been communicated to the service operators as well as destination offices and institutions to ensure smooth implementation. Police officials expressed hope that the new routing system would significantly reduce pressure on the flyovers and also minimise confusion among drivers.

A senior traffic department official said that most of the app-based shuttle buses are either 16-seater or 26-seater vehicles, both of which were previously allowed on the flyovers. Their growing numbers, however, had led to a sharp decline in traffic speed and increased congestion during peak hours. It may be noted that barring emergency services, all buses and goods vehicles are already prohibited from using the Maa Flyover.

Under the new traffic arrangement, shuttle buses heading towards Salt Lake and New Town from Howrah and Behala will be allowed to take AJC Bose Road and proceed via the Park Circus Connector, Park Circus Seven Point Crossing, Fourth Bridge, Biswa Bangla Sarani and Science City before accessing the Eastern Metropolitan Bypass. Buses coming from Behala and Chella will be directed through Rashbehari Avenue, Gariahat and Ruby Crossing to reach the Bypass.

Similarly, shuttle buses operating from Garia and Jadavpur will be permitted to use the Ajaynagar Link Road or the Patuli Bypass Link. Larger vehicles operating under certain app companies' 'Max Cab' shuttle services have also been assigned separate routes. These vehicles will be allowed to ply via Shakespeare Sarani, though traffic police may divert them through AJC Bose Road if congestion builds up.

Police officials said the revised measures are aimed at ensuring smoother traffic flow during peak hours while balancing the commuting needs of office-goers.

Mamata Defends I-PAC Visit in SC, Questions Timing of ED Raid

MI News Service, Kolkata:

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Thursday informed the Supreme Court that her visit to the I-PAC premises on January 8 was prompted by information that certain unauthorised persons had entered the office of Pratik Jain, who was entrusted with handling the Trinamool Congress's election-related work.

Clarifying the circumstances of the visit, senior advocate KapilSibal, appearing for Banerjee, told a Bench of Justices Prashant Kumar Mishra and VipulPancholi that the Chief Minister had not gone to the (I-PAC) office in her official capacity. Instead, Sibal said, she had visited the premises as the chairperson of the Trinamool Congress. He emphasised that I-PAC had been formally engaged by the party through a contract signed in 2021 to manage election strategy in West Bengal.

Sibal argued that I-PAC handled sensitive electoral data and information related to campaign planning. Questioning the timing of the Enforcement Directorate's (ED) search, he asked why the agency chose to act in the midst of the election season when, according to the ED's own petition, the last statement in the matter had been recorded in February 2024. He warned that access to such data could compromise the party's electoral strategy.

Raising objections to the ED's plea, Sibal contended that the matter ought to be heard by the Calcutta High Court under its writ jurisdiction. He alleged a pattern of central agency interference coinciding with elections and accused the ED of pursuing parallel proceedings. He also rejected allegations that Banerjee obstructed the search or removed devices, calling such claims false and contradicted by the agency's own panchnama.

Senior advocate Abhishek Singhvi, appearing for the state government and police officials, submitted that Banerjee, being a Z-plus protectee, was accompanied by the Director General of Police as part of mandatory security protocol.

Appearing for the ED, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta told a Bench of Justices Prashant Kumar Mishra and VipulPancholi that the agency's plea reflected "a very shocking pattern", alleging that whenever statutory authorities discharged their functions, the chief minister intervened.

Additional Solicitor General SV Raju argued that the facts disclosed cognisable offences. "This is a case of theft, robbery and dacoity. This is a simple case of theft which is made out," he said, relying on the precedent in LalitKumari to submit that registration of an FIR is mandatory when a cognisable offence is disclosed.

He added that since the chief minister was also the state's home minister, any probe by the state police would be ineffective, necessitating a CBI investigation.

Justice Mishra questioned the maintainability of the ED's plea and cautioned counsel against disorderly exchanges.

The Supreme Court described the ED's allegations of obstruction as "very serious" and said it would examine whether state authorities could interfere with a central agency's investigation. It stayed the FIR filed against ED officials and directed the state police to preserve CCTV footage of the January 8 raids linked to a coal smuggling case.

ITSEWA organizes a series of Social Welfare Initiatives

MI News Service, Kolkata: Demonstrating a strong commitment to social responsibility, the West Bengal unit of the All India Income Tax SC/ST Employees Welfare Association (ITSEWA) organized a series of welfare initiatives at the Income Tax Building, Pura Building, with the theme "standing by society and upholding a humanitarian commitment."

As part of the programme, warm winter garments were distributed to security personnel and support staff working tirelessly during harsh winter conditions, recognizing their dedication and service. The initiative highlighted the importance of acknowledging those who ensure smooth functioning in challenging circumstances.

Expanding its outreach beyond the city, ITSEWA contributed over one lakh rupees to MaaSaradaVidyamandir School in Kultali, South 24 Parganas, through the social service organization UtkarshayArohan, aimed at strengthening educational infrastructure for future generations.

In addition, in collaboration with the charitable organization Bihan, essential commodities and winter clothing were distributed among underprivileged and marginalised residents of Sankijahan village in South 24 Parganas, providing much-needed relief during the winter season.

The programme was attended by Chief Commissioner of Income Tax G. G. Kamei, along with ITSEWA officials SudipMajumdar, Jasdeep Singh, H. N. Singh, and representatives of the partner NGOs. The organizers reaffirmed their commitment to continue such initiatives, focusing on education, healthcare, and humanitarian support for society's underprivileged sections.

Mumbai is key battleground, as Maharashtra votes for high-stakes civic polls

Nanded-Waghala, Panvel, Bhiwandi-Nizampur, Latur, Malegaon, Sangli-Miraj-Kupwad, Jalgaon, Ahilyanagar, Dhule, Jalna and Ichalkaranji.

Chief Minister Fadnavis, along with his deputies Eknath Shinde and Ajit Pawar, campaigned extensively across Maharashtra, while cousins Uddhav and Raj Thackeray concentrated their efforts on Mumbai, Thane, Nashik, and Chhatrapati Sambhajnagar, where Uddhav held a rally.

Telangana minister Mohamad Azharuddin, AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi and Tamil Nadu BJP leader K Annamalai were also among the star campaigners for the polls.

Populist promises for women were the highlight of the manifestos of both the Mahayuti and the Shiv Sena (UBT)-MNS.

The Mahayuti has promised a 50 per cent concession for women in BEST bus travel, while the Thackeray cousins have assured a Rs 1,500 monthly allowance for women domestic helps and a property tax waiver on houses up to 700 sq ft.

The Congress manifesto, by contrast, prioritises combating Mumbai's pollution, upgrading the BEST fleet, and strengthening the city's financial health.

The race for Mumbai's mayoral post took centre stage in the campaign, with the BJP claiming that a Sena (UBT) victory could lead to a Muslim mayor, a charge the Uddhav Thackeray-led party countered by assuring voters of a Marathi mayor.

CM Fadnavis also guaranteed that the mayor will be a "Hindu and Marathi".

In the 227-ward Mumbai, the BJP is contesting 137 seats, the Shiv Sena 90, while the NCP is fighting separately on 94 seats.

The Shiv Sena (UBT) has fielded 163 candidates, the MNS 52, the Congress 143 and the VBA 46.

The Congress has fielded 1,263 candidates across the rest of the state.

After the end of the campaigning on Tuesday, Fadnavis said Raj Thackeray will be the biggest loser in the alliance with his cousin, Uddhav Thackeray.

Downplaying the coming-together of the rival NCPs in Pune and Pimpri Chinchwad as a "localised phenomenon", he said the BJP will react only if both factions decide to ally after the polls, which he felt was unlikely at the moment.

Fadnavis also remarked that the Thackerays lacked wholehearted commitment in their campaign and appeared "unwilling to stake their political prestige".

While asserting that the BJP remains the central force around which Maharashtra's politics will revolve in the future, he acknowledged that electoral setbacks do not spell the end for any party or leader.

Those who strive to make a comeback can still find success, he added.

Landmine blasts along LoC cause forest fire in J-K

MI News Service, Jammu: In a major recurrence of violence, nearly a dozen landmines exploded, initiating a forest fire along the Line of Control (LoC) in Jammu and Kashmir's Poonch district for the second day on Tuesday, officials said.

The fire broke out in the Basooni forward area of Balakote sector on Monday afternoon and spread to parts of the Mendhar sector on Tuesday.

The fire caused nearly a dozen landmines to explode, according to the officials.

The forward areas along the LoC are dotted with landmines as part of anti-infiltration obstacle system to prevent terrorists from intruding into Indian territory from across the border.

Amid the threat of possible infiltration attempts, multi-tier security arrangements have been strengthened and patrolling intensified in the area, the officials said.

However, there is no report of any casualty in the blasts and efforts are on to douse the flames.

The fire broke out in the Basooni forward area in Balakote sector around 1.50 pm, causing five landmines to explode, the officials said.

According to the officials, the Army has intensified vigil as the fire is still raging.

The proposal has been submitted to the Railway Board and has received approval from the Hon'ble Minister for Railways.

The approved work will cover important sections of Eastern Railway including Howrah-Santragachi, Liluah-Belur Math, Tarakeswar-Goghat, Maynapur-Bishnupur, Rampurhat-Dumka, Azimganj-Murshidabad, Lakshmikanthapur-Namkhana, Kankurgachi-Ballygunge, Kalyani-Kalyani Simanta, Krishnanagar Junction-Amghata, Krishnanagar City-Lalgola, Murshidabad-Azimganj, Asansol-Burnpur, Barachak-Hirapur and Bakhtar Nagar-Andal sections.

The work forms part of the larger umbrella project titled "Provision of Kavach with communication backbone of Longhi-Ballygunge, Kalyani-Kalyani Simanta, Krishnanagar Junction-Amghata, Krishnanagar City-Lalgola, Murshidabad-Azimganj, Asansol-Burnpur, Barachak-Hirapur and Bakhtar Nagar-Andal sections.

Offenders can't be shielded by state: SC seeks WB CM Mamta Banerjee's response on ED's plea over I-PAC raid interference

MI News Service, New Delhi: Observing that offenders cannot be protected under the shield of law-enforcement agencies of a particular state, the Supreme Court on Thursday issued notice to West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee and senior state-police officials on pleas filed by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) alleging interference by state authorities during its search operations at the premises of political consultancy firm I-PAC under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

A Bench of Justices Prashant Kumar Mishra and A.G. Masih noted that if issues involving larger constitutional questions are left undecided, it could lead to a situation of lawlessness in states governed by different political outfits.

"Considering adherence of rule of law in the country and to allow each organ to function independently, it is necessary to examine the issue so that offenders are not allowed to be protected under the shield of law-enforcing agencies of a particular state. According to us, larger questions are involved and raised, which if allowed to remain undecided, would further worsen the situation, and there will be a situation of lawlessness prevailing in one or other state, considering that different outfits are governing at different places," the Court observed.

The Court has also stayed an FIR registered by the West Bengal police against ED officials who had entered the I-PAC premises to conduct searches, after ED counsel sought interim protection. During the hearing, the Solicitor General of India (SGI) Tushar Mehta, appearing on behalf of ED, described the incident as reflecting a "shocking state of affairs" in West Bengal.

"In this State, whenever statutory authorities perform an investigation, the Hon'ble Chief Minister barges into wherever it is being conducted," the SG submitted. He alleged that the Chief Minister was accompanied by the Director General of Police, the Commissioner, the Deputy Commissioner (of Kolkata) and a large contingent of police personnel. The police personnel also accompanied the political leader to stage a "dharma" (protest) at the site, the SG added.

The SG further submitted that ED officers were obstructed in the discharge of their official duties and were personally aggrieved by the events that unfolded. He also alleged a pattern of intimidation against central agencies in West Bengal by referring to a prior incident in which the residence of a CBI Joint-Director was allegedly "gheraoed" and ransacked.

According to the ED, incriminating material pertaining to the alleged coal scam of 2742.32 crores was present both at the I-PAC premises and at the residence of persons under investigation. Despite prior intimation to the local police, a large police force allegedly entered the premises during the search, ED contended. It was also alleged that materials seized by the ED were taken away, including the mobile phone of an ED officer.

As per the ED, in the alleged coal scam, excavated and stolen coal used to be sold to a group of companies", SG submitted. "If this (interference) continues, it will encourage central officers not to discharge their duties. Central forces will be demoralised," Mehta warned, adding that such actions would have a chilling effect on investigations.

The ED urged the Supreme Court to set a precedent by directing the suspension of police officers who were present at the scene and ordering a departmental inquiry to be conducted by the State Chief Secretary. Further, it sought directions to recover (from WB authorities) the seized evidence (by ED) under the supervision of the Court.

"This is what happens when mobocracy replaces democracy," the SG remarked. The SG also alleged attempts to disrupt judicial proceedings. He submitted that on January 9, the matter could not be heard as the atmosphere in the High Court was unconducive.

ED also placed on record WhatsApp chats of the All India Trinamool Congress legal cell allegedly calling supporters to assemble in court. Buses and vehicles were arranged to mobilise crowds, the SG remarked. In response, the Court remarked that it seems as if the High Court had been turned into "Jantar Mantar".

Senior Advocate Kapil Sibal, appearing for Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, objected to the maintainability of the ED's plea. He argued that if the High Court has already seized of the matter, there was no need for the Supreme Court to entertain parallel proceedings. According to him, the ED was engaging in forum shopping. He submitted that there was no basis to assume that hearings could not take place before the High Court.

Raising questions over the timing of the ED raid, Sibal questioned why the ED chose to conduct searches in 2026, close to state elections, when it had not acted in 2024 or 2025. "Statements were recorded in the matter last in February 2024", he highlighted.

He argued that the ED was aware that the premises contained political party data and election-related material and questioned the necessity of entering such premises in the midst of an election cycle. Senior Advocate Abhishek Manu Singhvi, appearing for the West Bengal government and the Director General of Police, objected to the maintainability of the ED's plea.

He pointed out that the ED had first approached the High Court and then, the very next day, filed petitions before the Supreme Court. Questioning alleged inconsistencies in the ED's record, Singhvi argued that either the panchanama was incorrect or the version presented in the Supreme Court petition was wrong. Referring to the timeline given in ED's panchanama, Singhvi submitted that the search was shown to have commenced at 6:45 a.m., while intimation to the police was sent at 11:30. He questioned how a person who had sent an email at 11:30 a.m. could later claim that it was sent earlier.

"This was a way to cover up tracks. Paper trail created", Singhvi added. Singhvi further submitted that unidentified persons had entered the premises and refused to disclose their identities. Defending the Director General of Police, Singhvi stated the Chief Minister is a Z-plus (security class) protectee. He argued that it was the duty of the police to ensure her security. "That is why the DGP went there," Singhvi said.

Additional Solicitor General SV Raju, appearing for ED officers who had filed a separate plea seeking registration of an FIR by the CBI, argued that the incident disclosed a prima facie case of theft, which is a cognizable offence.

Referring to the apex court's landmark ruling, Lalita Kumari, he submitted that registration of an FIR was mandatory in such cases. He argued that the offence was not merely theft, but could extend to robbery or dacoity, though he limited his submissions to theft.

Raju alleged that the Chief Minister herself had committed theft in the presence of the DGP and the Kolkata Police Commissioner. "When the highest officials are involved in the crime, a CBI investigation is required," he submitted, seeking transfer of the probe to the central agency.

After hearing submissions by both sides - ED and the West Bengal government, the apex court issued notice to West Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee and other officials of the state administration, including the DGP, Commissioner of Police and Deputy Commissioner of Police (in Kolkata), seeking a response on ED's plea. It posted the matter to be heard next on February 3.

BCCI not aware of any talks on shifting Bangladesh's T20 WC match venues: Board secretary

MI News Service, Majuli: The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) secretary Devajit Saikia said on Thursday that the board is "not in loop" and unaware about any communication between Bangladesh Cricket Board and International Cricket Council over BCB's demand for shifting Bangladesh's ICC T20 World Cup matches outside India and the ICC stance on the matter.

A video conference between the Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB) and the International Cricket Council (ICC) was held on Tuesday afternoon to discuss the Bangladesh National Cricket Team's participation in the ICC Men's T20 World Cup 2026. The board has been wanting to shift their team's matches in T20 World Cup, co-hosted by India and Sri Lanka, outside India ever since Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR) released pacer Mustafizur Rahman from their IPL 2026 squad on instructions of BCCI, amid ongoing atrocities against minorities in Bangladesh.

"As of now, BCCI is not in the loop regarding any communication between the Bangladesh Cricket Board and the ICC, so we are totally unaware. Once we receive information, we will keep you updated," Saikia told ANI.

Delhi, Tamil Nadu, Andhra see obesity more among women than men: Economic Survey

Delhi : Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh have higher proportion of women with obesity compared to men, according to a shocking revelation in the Economic Survey tabled in the Parliament on Monday. In the National Capital Territory (Delhi), 41.3 per cent of women are obese compared to 38 per cent for men, said the survey, citing National Family Health Survey (NFHS). In Tamil Nadu, it is 40.4 per cent for women while 37 per cent men are obese. In Andhra Pradesh, 36.3 per cent of women are obese as against 31.1 per cent for men.

Tabled by Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, the survey said, "Combined with an ageing population in some states, obesity presents a concerning situation. Preventive measures must be taken to enable citizens to have a healthier lifestyle." The survey added that obesity is higher in cities than in rural areas, affecting 29.8 per cent men in urban localities compared to 19.3 per cent of men in villages. Unhealthy diets contribute to 54 per cent of total disease burden in India, said the survey, sparking worries about increased consumption of processed food items, reduced physical activity and limited access to diverse foods.

The survey warned that preventive measures must be taken to enable citizens to have a healthier lifestyle. In order to reap the gains of the country's demographic dividend, it is critical that Indian population's health parameters transition towards a balanced and diverse diet, said the document. The adult obesity rate in the country has more than tripled while the rise among children is the steepest in the world, after Vietnam and Namibia, said the survey, citing a World Obesity Federation report. The Economic Survey was tabled a day ahead of the presentation of the Union Budget 2024.

MENTAL HEALTH CRISIS EMPHASISES ACCESS ISSUES

MASSACHUSETTS [US] : According to the American Psychological Association's 2023 Practitioner Pulse Survey, the ongoing mental health crisis is posing substantial obstacles for many psychologists as they deal with increased demand from patients coming with increasingly severe symptoms year after year.

The survey, which was completed by 561 licenced practising psychologists between August 30 and September 29, 2023, discovered that not only did more than half of psychologists (52 per cent) report an increase in the severity of symptoms among their patients, but 41 per cent reported an increase in the number of sessions spent treating each patient, which may limit their capacity to accept new patients.

Similarly, more than half (56 per cent) said that they had no openings for new patients. And more than two-thirds (69 per cent) of psychologists who maintained a waitlist said that the average wait was up to three months for a first appointment, while 31 per cent said average wait times were longer than three months. Psychologists reported increasing demand for treatment of certain mental health conditions, including anxiety disorders (68 per cent) and trauma- and stressor-related disorders (50 per cent), among those who treat those disorders.

"As the mental health crisis continues, psychologists are under pressure," said APA CEO Arthur C. Evans Jr., PhD. "These findings underscore the sustained demand for care, led by increased severity of symptoms and extended treatment courses, compounded by increases year after year. This paints a clear picture of psychologists operating at the brink of their capacity. To better meet demand, it is essential that we develop comprehensive public health strategies that reach people throughout their lifespan and robustly address behavioral health alongside physical health."

The survey found that the psychologist workforce is already adapting to meet the changing needs of the population -- for example, as part of integrated care teams or in medical settings. More than 4 in 5 psychologists (86 per cent) said they have worked alongside other health care providers, with 59 pre cent saying they do so frequently or very frequently. Collaborating providers included psychiatrists (76 per cent of psychologists said they worked with them, with 38per cent doing so frequently); other physicians (45 per cent, with 17 per cent doing so frequently); occupational therapists (30 per cent, with 6 per cent doing so frequently); physician assistants (41 per cent, with 11per cent doing so frequently); community health workers (30 per cent, with 4 per cent doing so frequently); and speech language pathologists (28per cent, with 5per cent frequent collaborators). Alongside mental health concerns, psychologists reported treating patients with physical conditions, including 50per cent treating patients with chronic pain, 42per cent treating obesity or weight conditions, 27per cent some symptoms of cancer, and 25per cent high blood pressure.

"Integrated care, where psychologists work on health care teams with other providers, is one way that we can expand access to care, prioritize preventive care and find ways to better meet the biological, psychological and social needs of the patients," said Evans. "We must also support and expand the mental health workforce, foster innovation and technology, and support psychologists in extending their reach in the communities in which they live and work."

Psychologists have shown themselves to be adaptable, changing their work habits during the pandemic to include fully remote or hybrid practices. Only 21 per cent are now offering fully remote practices (down from a peak of 64 per cent in 2020), according to the poll, yet more than two-thirds (67per cent) are now working in hybrid practices seeing some patients in person and others remotely.

More than one-third (36per cent) of psychologists reported experiencing burnout and 1 in 5 psychologists (21per cent) said that they were planning to reduce their practice hours in the next 12 months. Yet nearly three-quarters (73per cent) said that they were able to practice self-care and nearly two-thirds (63per cent) said that they were able to maintain a positive work-life balance.

Research shows diet has significant impact on risk of Alzheimer's disease

CALIFORNIA [US] : In a detailed study published in the Journal of Alzheimer's Disease, Diet's Role in Modifying risk of Alzheimer's Disease: History and Present Understanding, we can finally discover which diets are useful in lowering the chance of getting Alzheimer's disease. The importance of nutrition in reducing the risk of Alzheimer's disease is well examined. Plant-based diets, such as the Mediterranean diet and traditional cuisines in China, Japan, and India, have been demonstrated to minimise risk, particularly when compared to the Western diet.

Alzheimer's disease rates rise in these countries as they make the nutrition transition to the Western diet. This study identifies dementia risk factors including higher consumption of saturated fats, meat, especially red meat such as hamburgers and barbeque as well as processed meats such as hot dogs, and ultra processed foods high in sugar and refined grains.

This review also lets us know why certain foods increase or reduce risk of Alzheimer's disease. For example, meat raised risk of dementia the most by increasing risk factors such as inflammation, insulin resistance, oxidative stress, saturated fat, advanced glycation end products, and trimethylamine N-oxide. This study also outlines several foods that are protective against Alzheimer's disease, such as green leafy vegetables, colorful fruits and vegetables, legumes (like beans), nuts, omega-3 fatty acids, and whole grains.

Ultra processed foods can increase the risk of obesity and diabetes, themselves risk factors for Alzheimer's disease. Ultra processed foods often lack the very ingredients found in whole plant foods that keep dementia away, such as anti-inflammatory components and antioxidants.

Poverty is an important driver of Alzheimer's disease in the US since ultra processed foods and meat are cheaper sources of energy than fruits, vegetables, whole grains, and other more nutritious foods, thus promoting obesity. The paper also suggests that Alzheimer's disease rates in the US are projected to increase by 50% from 2018 levels by 2038. This calculation is based on comparing trends of obesity in the US with Alzheimer's disease trends. This comparison shows a 20-year lag between obesity rates and Alzheimer's disease rates. This estimate is very close to the estimate published by the Alzheimer's Association in 2018, an estimate of a 56% increase. Our estimate suggests that the rising trend of obesity, due to consumption of meat and ultra processed foods, is the force driving dementia.

Early life antibiotic might increases risk of asthma: Study

SELANGOR, MALAYSIA : Early exposure to antibiotics might increase long-term vulnerability to asthma. Importantly, the study team discovered a chemical generated by gut bacteria that might possibly be used in the future as a simple therapy, in the form of a food supplement, to prevent asthma in children, according to recent study from Monash University.

Asthma affects around 260 million people worldwide, resulting in approximately 455,000 deaths each year.

Professor Ben Marsland's study, published today (TBC) in the journal Immunity, identified a molecule called IPA as critical for long-term asthma prevention. Importantly the finding of the molecule produced by bacteria in a healthy gut provides an explanation as to why the recurrent use of antibiotics increases the risk of asthma, according to Professor Marsland. "We know that recurrent use of antibiotics early in life disrupts a person's healthy gut microbiota and increases the risk of allergies and asthma. We have discovered that a consequence of antibiotic treatment is the depletion of bacteria that produce IPA, thus reducing a key molecule that has the potential to prevent asthma," he said.

The first years of life are important in developing a stable gut microbiota, according to Professor Marsland. "It is shaped first by food intake - both milk and solid foods - as well as genetics, and environmental exposures. Infants at high risk of allergies and asthma have been shown to have a disrupted and delayed maturation of the gut microbiome," he said. The use of antibiotics in the first year of life can have the unintentional effect of reducing bacteria which promote health, and we now know from this research that antibiotics lead to reduced IPA, which we have found is critical early in life as our lung cells mature, making it a candidate for early life prevention of allergic airway inflammation."

Working in mice predisposed to develop asthma, the research team found that - when given antibiotics in early life - the mice were more susceptible to house-dust mite-induced allergic.

Researchers shed light on how to restore nerve cells after injury

LA JOLLA (CALIFORNIA) : More than 3 million people in the United States suffer from peripheral neuropathy each year, a condition in which nerves outside of the brain and spinal cord are destroyed, resulting in pain and loss of feeling in the affected areas.

Peripheral neuropathy can be caused by diabetes, trauma, genetically inherited disease, infection, and other reasons.

Salk researchers identified a way to repair destroyed nerves in mice during peripheral neuropathy. They discovered that the protein Miff aids in the activation of the repair function of the nervous system's specialist Schwann cells.

The findings, which will be published in Cell Reports, may inspire new therapeutics to increase repair function and heal peripheral neuropathy.

"We wanted to know what mechanisms control damage response in peripheral nerves under varying conditions--like acute trauma, genetic disorders, or degenerative diseases," says senior author Professor Samuel Pfaff. "We found that Schwann cells, which are special cells in nerves that protect and support neurons' axons, enter their repair state because of a pathway mediated by the protein Miff."

The peripheral nervous system is made up of all the nerves that branch out from the brain and spinal cord to give us sensation throughout our bodies. There are many cell types in peripheral nerves, but Pfaff and his team focus on understanding neurons, which transmit information throughout the nervous system, and Schwann cells, which protect healthy neurons and repair damaged ones.

The peripheral nervous system's ability to repair damage is remarkable considering that the central nervous system--made up of the brain and spinal cord--is not able to repair damage. Yet, the mechanisms that orchestrate this feat have remained poorly understood.

To unravel how Schwann cells differentiate to begin repairing peripheral nerve damage, the researchers looked at mouse models of Charcot Marie Tooth disease (CMT), a type of hereditary neuropathy.

"Going into this project, I thought that when you have a genetic nerve degeneration disorder, cells are dying and recovery isn't possible," says first author Lydia Daboussi, a former postdoctoral researcher in Pfaff's lab and current assistant professor at UC Los Angeles. "But our findings show that there are gene programs turned on by Miff that repair some of the damage done in those chronic disease scenarios, and when you turn those programs off, disease symptoms get worse."

In mice with CMT, the researchers noticed that the Schwann cells completing the repairs had high levels of Miff in their nuclei--where the genetic instructions for how to be a Schwann cell and how to conduct repairs are stored.

Upon investigation of this relationship between Miff and Schwann cells, they found that Miff was in the cytoplasm of Schwann cells until sensing neuronal damage. Damage then prompted Miff to relocate from the cytoplasm of the cell to the nucleus, where it would direct the Schwann cell to make repairs.

To validate the importance of Miff in creating repair Schwann cells, the researchers removed Miff altogether. In cases of both trauma and CMT, nerve repair was arrested in the absence of Miff--demonstrating that Miff is required for peripheral nerve repair and regeneration.

According to Daboussi, Miff acts like a fire extinguisher. Always there, sitting in the Schwann cell, unnoticed until damage occurs. And when that damage occurs, Miff is ready to go and immediately turns on the cell's repair functions.

Most surprising, noted Pfaff, was that Miff was orchestrating these repairs during a chronic disease like CMT.

Researchers reveals ways of preventing cancer cells from colonizing liver

ZURICH [SWITZERLAND] : Nine times out of ten, metastasis is the cause of cancer deaths. This is the point when the primary tumour has sent out cells, like seeds, and invaded other organs of the body. Despite significant advancements in the treatment of primary tumours, medicine remains mainly powerless against metastases. As of right now, there are no drugs that stop this process.

Researchers from the Department of Biosystems Science and Engineering at ETH Zurich in Basel, under the direction of Andreas Moor, have now published findings in the journal Nature that demonstrate how colorectal cancer cells colonise the liver. Their research will aid in the creation of therapies that might impede the spread of disease.

Cancer is said to metastasise when cells from the primary tumour break off and travel via the circulatory system to other parts of the body. "Colorectal cancer metastasises to the liver because of how our blood flows," Moor says. Blood is first enriched with nutrients in the intestines before it goes to the liver, which metabolises the nutrients. For colorectal cancer cells, the liver is the last stop. "They get caught in the liver's capillary network," Moor says.

Costanza Borrelli, a doctoral student, and other members of Moor's team have now shown that the liver cells also play a large role in whether or not the cancer cells lodged there can colonise their new location. Science has known for over a century that, much like plant seeds in soil, cancer cells are dependent on their environment, yet it was previously unknown which molecular mechanisms play a role here.

Using sophisticated tests on genetically modified mice, Moor and his team have discovered that the secret lies in certain proteins on the cell surface. When liver cells have a protein called Plexin-B2 and the colorectal cancer cells possess certain proteins from the semaphorin family, the colorectal cancer cells can attach themselves to the liver cells.

Cancer cells that have semaphorins on their surface are especially dangerous, as attested by clinical studies cited by Moor's researchers in their paper. The study data shows that colorectal cancer metastasises earlier and more frequently to the liver if the tumour has large amounts of semaphorin. Plexin and its counterpart semaphorin were previously known to the research community for their function in the nervous system, where the two proteins steer growing nerve cells and ensure they form the right pathways. "Why liver cells also create plexin and what this protein does in healthy livers is anything but clear - and interests us immensely," Moor says. In other words, the question of its function remains open.

What Moor and his team have discovered, however, is that direct contact between plexin and semaphorin triggers fundamental changes in colorectal cancer cells. To break off from the primary tumour, the cancer cells have to change their identity: they free themselves from the surface layer of the intestine, or epithelium, severing their close connections to neighbouring cells.

Once in the bloodstream, the cancer cells resemble those from connective tissue called mesenchyme. Yet once they find their new niche - thanks to the plexin on some liver cells - the cancer cells turn back into their sedentary form. "An epithelialisation process takes place," the researchers wrote in their paper. Moor expands: "You can spot this immediately if you look at the cancer cells, as they form invaginations similar to the folds or crypts in the intestines."

The researchers' discovery will have an impact on more than colorectal cancer patients: further tests have shown that plexin also encourages the formation of metastases in melanoma and pancreatic cancer. For Moor and his team, this throws up many new research questions. One in particular is drawing their focus: when cancer cells cluster together to form a tumour, they also influence cells in their environment. "Cancer cells set up their own ecosystem," Moor explains.

If efforts to inhibit the crucial interaction between plexin and semaphorin succeed, it may be possible to prevent the cancer from establishing new tumours in the first place. That's because early on, when the relationships among the cells in this ecosystem have not yet been firmly established, tumour metastases are especially vulnerable, Moor explains. He appears confident that an answer lies within this "critical period of time in the development of metastases", even though the path to any potential treatment is still long.

Iran briefly closes airspace for all flights unless previous permission is given: media

MI News Service, Cairo: Iran issued a notice shutting down its airspace briefly till early Thursday to all flights except international flights to and from Iran with prior permission, according to media reports citing flight traffic information provider Flightradar24 on Thursday.

The notice is valid for "a little more than 2 hours through 00:30 UTC 15 Jan.," Flightradar24 said on social media.

Tit-for-tat response, warns Raja Singh after Hyderabad temple vandalized

MI News Service, Hyderabad: Controversial Goshamahal MLA T Raja Singh warned that there would be retaliation for every incident of temple vandalism, a day after the religious structure was damaged in Hyderabad's Puranapul Darwaza.

In a statement issued on Thursday, January 15, Raja Singh said that the Hindus have woken up and will give a proper reply to every incident of temple vandalism. "On Wednesday night, a Muslim damaged a temple at Puranapul. In retaliation, the Hindus damaged the dargah and the chilla constructed illegally. The Hindus have learnt to retaliate," said Singh.

He said that after every case, the police say the men involved in the desecration of temples are insane. "Now Hindus have also become insane. They can see the mosque and the dargah too," said Singh.

On Wednesday, January 14, night, a temple in Puranapul was vandalised by an unidentified person, leading to violence, where five people were injured and a religious flag, shrine and some vehicles were damaged.

Locals who noticed the vandalism alerted residents, following which a mob gathered and staged a protest. Police reached the spot and prevented any outbreak of violence.

The police booked two cases, one for vandalism of the temple, and the second against a mob for damaging vehicles, attacking police with stones, damaging a religious flag and graves at Puranapul Darwaza, and attacking people of a particular community.

Senior officials held talks with locals and the damaged portion of the idol was restored, with heavy police deployed in and around Puranapul and its surrounding areas.

Delhi High Court reprimands Hate Monger's NGO for repeatedly Filing PILs against mosques and Muslim religious places

MI News Service, New Delhi: The Delhi High Court on Wednesday strongly reprimanded an organisation named Save India Foundation for repeatedly filing Public Interest Litigations (PILs) alleging encroachment by mosques and religious places in the national capital. A division bench comprising Chief Justice Devendra Kumar Upadhyay and Justice Tejas Karia observed that the conduct of the organisation was inappropriate and amounted to a misuse of the PIL mechanism.

The bench remarked, "Do you see only one kind of encroachment? We do not understand this. You are misusing the court process. Every week you roam around the city, spot a religious structure, and file a PIL," emphasising that there are many other ways to serve humanity.

The Chief Justice further said, "Are you trying to get your name into the Guinness Book of World Records? Do you not see any other problems in society? People who do not have access to clean drinking water, people who are dying of hunger—do you not see them? Do you see only encroachments? Please do not misuse PILs like this; these petitions trouble us."

It was informed that Save India Foundation had filed two PILs in the Delhi High Court on the same day. One petition referred to Jama Masjid, while the other mentioned a madrasa in Giri Nagar. The petitions alleged that these structures had encroached upon government "green/secular" land. Appearing for the petitioner organisation, Advocate Umesh Chandra Sharma argued that no action had been taken against the mosque despite complaints being filed. On the other hand, Advocate Sameer Vashishth, appearing for the Delhi government, stated that according to local authorities, the structure was an encroachment.

Senior Advocate Sanjay Ghosh, representing the Delhi Waqf Board, argued that the mosque was a registered structure and that the Delhi Development Authority (DDA) had also participated in the demarcation of the land. He further submitted that a High Court judge had earlier noted a pattern in the petitions filed by the organisation, pointing out that religious structures belonging to a particular community were being targeted.

After hearing the case for some time, the bench said it would reconsider the matter on January 21. Meanwhile, the Waqf Welfare Forum has filed a complaint with the National Commission for Minorities against Save India Foundation, questioning the organisation's credibility and legal standing, and raising concerns over whether it is operating to spread social hatred or for personal gain.

Magistrate Ticket Checking Drive Conducted at Howrah Station

MI News Service, Kolkata, 15 Jan.26 : Howrah Division, Eastern Railway conducted a Magistrate Ticket Checking Drive at Howrah Station with the objective of strengthening ticketing discipline and ensuring strict compliance with railway rules. The drive was aimed at promoting lawful, responsible and orderly rail travel for the benefit of genuine passengers.

The operation was carried out by a coordinated team comprising 35 Ticket Checking Staff (TTEs) along with 2 Railway Protection Force (RPF) personnel, ensuring effective monitoring and enforcement across the station premises.

During the drive, a total of 446 cases of ticketing irregularities were detected. These included 327 cases of ticketless travel, 88 cases of unbooked luggage, and 31 cases of littering. All offenders were penalized as per extant Railway rules, highlighting the importance of maintaining discipline, cleanliness and fairness within railway premises.

This enforcement initiative reflects Howrah Division's continued commitment towards preventing revenue leakage, promoting responsible passenger behaviour, and maintaining a clean, safe and orderly station environment. Howrah Division, Eastern Railway urges all passengers to travel with proper and valid tickets, carry duly booked luggage and strictly adhere to railway rules to avoid inconvenience and penalties. Mehbooba Mufti wants Centre's intervention for safe return of students from Iran

MI News Service, Srinagar: PDP Chief Mehbooba Mufti on Thursday sought the Union government's intervention for the safe return of students, including Kashmiris, from Iran amid the prevailing tension there.

This came a day after parents of several Kashmiri students studying in Iran expressed concern over the situation there, and appealed to the Centre to facilitate their children's return.

"Thousands of students from across the country, including Kashmir, are stranded in Iran amid the present volatile situation. This has triggered deep fear and anxiety in anguished parents desperately worried about their children's safety. Urge S Jaishankar and MEA to intervene urgently and ensure their safe return," Mehbooba said in a post on X.

According to estimates, a little over 10,000 Indians, including students, are currently living in Iran.

In a fresh advisory, the Indian embassy in Tehran has urged all Indians, including students, pilgrims, business persons and tourists, to leave Iran by available means of transport, including commercial flights.

The protests began late last month in Tehran after the Iranian currency rial plunged to record lows. The protests have since spread to all 31 provinces, evolving from an agitation against economic woes to a demand for political change.

The overall situation in the country in the last few days has deteriorated dramatically as the death toll from the nationwide protests has increased to over 2,500, according to the US-based Human Rights Activists News Agency (HRANA).

Russia expels British diplomat affiliated to special services

MI News Service, Moscow: Russia has decided to expel a British embassy employee for alleged affiliation with the British special services, the Russian foreign ministry said Thursday. The ministry said it summoned the British charge d'affaires in Russia on Thursday and lodged a strong protest regarding the issue. The ministry has decided to revoke the accreditation of the employee and ordered him to leave Russia within two weeks.

"Moscow will not tolerate the activities of undeclared British special services staff on Russian territory," it said, adding that if London escalates the situation, the Russian side will give a decisive "mirror" response.

Don't let history books portray Gaza as victim: Ex-US Secretary of State

MI News Service, Washington: The former US Secretary said that the next generation won't remember October 7 in the same way. "That's true in Israel, America and broadly in the world," he said.

Former US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo has stressed that the world needs to ensure, "the history books don't write about the victims of Gaza".

Pompeo said that there are casualties in every war, but "the victims are the people of the nation-state of Israel." The former US Secretary said that the next generation won't remember October 7 in the same way. "That's true in Israel, America and broadly in the world," he said.

According to a report by Middle East Eye, addressing a gathering at The Mir Yami Institute, Pompeo said that the aggressors are Iran and Hamas.

Protest in Copenhagen voices opposition to U.S. plans on Greenland

MI News Service, Oslo: About 200 protesters rallied outside the U.S. Embassy in Denmark Wednesday, expressing opposition to Washington's plans on Greenland as Danish and Greenlandic officials met with U.S. Vice President JD Vance and Secretary of State Marco Rubio in Washington.

The demonstration, named "Greenland Belongs to the Greenlanders," began at 4 p.m. local time (1500 GMT) in front of the embassy and was later moved by police to the opposite side of the street. The protest lasted around two hours.

"We only want to be ourselves. We want to belong to Greenland as Greenlanders, and we will stay strong and committed to that," a Greenland der, Andersen, told Xinhua.

"Nobody should be able to take over another country - not because someone thinks they are strong and therefore can take whatever they want," said Simon Vincent Nelson, a Copenhagen resident, adding that he was "very angry about it and felt offended."

The rally followed U.S. President Donald Trump's renewed remarks to acquire Greenland, which have been firmly rejected by Denmark, Greenland, and NATO allies.

Türkiye opposes military operation against Iran, says FM

MI News Service, Istanbul: Türkiye opposes any military operation against Iran and supports efforts to preserve regional stability, Foreign Minister Hakan Fidan said here on Thursday. At a press briefing, Fidan said he hoped the United States and Iran would resolve the matter between themselves, either through mediators, other parties, or direct negotiations.

He stressed that dialogue remains the only viable path to resolving disputes, warning that any large-scale instability in Iran would exceed the region's capacity to absorb its consequences.

Emphasizing Türkiye's close ties with its eastern neighbor, Fidan said developments in Iran are of direct concern to Ankara.

Fidan added that Iran must address its internal problems, resolve disputes with neighboring countries, and pursue diplomacy on the nuclear issue to remove the structural causes of its economic difficulties.

US launches Gaza plan's 2nd phase as Palestinian technocratic government unveiled

MI News Service, Washington: US special envoy Steve Witkoff on Wednesday announced the launch of phase two of President Donald Trump's 20-point plan for ending the war in Gaza, including the establishment of a new technocratic Palestinian administration for the Strip.

Witkoff said in a statement that this new phase will consist of "moving from ceasefire to demilitarization, technocratic governance and reconstruction." "Phase two establishes a transitional technocratic Palestinian administration in Gaza — the National Committee for the Administration of Gaza (NCAG) — and begins the full demilitarization and reconstruction of Gaza, primarily the disarmament of all unauthorized personnel," Witkoff said.

"The US expects Hamas to comply fully with its obligations, including the immediate return of the final deceased hostage. Failure to do so will bring serious consequences," the US envoy added.

"Importantly, phase one delivered historic humanitarian aid, maintained the ceasefire, returned all living hostages and the remains of 27 of the 28 deceased hostages," Witkoff said, thanking fellow mediators Egypt, Turkey and Qatar "for their indispensable mediation efforts that made all progress to date possible."

Israel pushed back on transitioning to phase two before Hamas had given up its weapons and returned the body of Master Sgt. Ran Gvili. Top US officials told Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu during his Mar-a-Lago meetings last month that Washington is committed to those two goals, but doesn't want to condition the commencement of phase two on either, a US official and two sources familiar with the matter told The Times of Israel last week.

Police officer Master Sgt. Ran Gvili, confirmed on January 31, 2024, to have been killed by invading Hamas-led terrorists on October 7, 2023, with his body abducted to Gaza. (Israel Police)

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu spoke with Gvili's parents after the announcement, telling them that Gvili's return "is at the top of Israel's priorities, and that the declarative move to establish a committee of technocrats [to manage Gaza] will not affect in any way the efforts to bring Ran

"Hamas is required to comply with the terms of the agreement and make a 100 percent effort to return all fallen hostages, until the very last one — Ran Gvili, a hero of Israel," Netanyahu's back for burial in Israel."

Netanyahu also said that Israel is insisting that information on Gvili's whereabouts provided by the mediators "be immediately translated into effective actions on the ground.

office said in a statement.

Gvili's mother, Talik, said in a statement that the declaration will not impact her campaign for her son but emphasized her opposition to the implementation of phase two until he is returned. "Moving to phase two at this moment, while the efforts to return Ran have yet to be exhausted, is a loss of the most significant leverage and may be a sentence of eternal disappear-plemented as long as Ran has not returned home," she said.US

Notably, Witkoff's announcement does not include the unveiling of the Board of Peace, which is supposed to be made up of world leaders who will oversee the NCAG.

The US had initially planned to reveal the Board of Peace's members last month, but has struggled to rally international support around its plan amid heavy skepticism that Hamas will agree to disarm or that Israel will agree to further withdraw from the Strip and allow for its reconstruction.

Nonetheless, the US is still aiming to hold the first meeting of the Board of Peace on the sidelines of the World Economic Forum in Davos next week.

The US has been in talks with Mideast mediators Egypt, Qatar and Turkey, which have assured Washington that Hamas will agree to a gradual disarmament plan that would begin with the terror group giving up its heavy weaponry and the launch of a "buy-back" program for lighter weapons, according to the US official and two Arab diplomats, who said the goal is to begin implementing the program in the coming weeks. It is not clear whether this framework will be sufficient for Israel, and Hamas officials have publicly asserted that the organization will only agree to give up its weapons in a negotiated process that results in the establishment of a Palestinian state. For its part, the US has claimed that Hamas agreed to disarm during a meeting between top officials from each side hours before phase one of the ceasefire was inked in October

That deal has barely held in the nearly three months since, with mutual allegations of violations and over 400 Palestinians killed, according to the Hamas-run health ministry, which doesn't differentiate between civilians and combatants.

While aid has increased significantly during this period, humanitarian groups say Israeli restrictions have hampered their efforts to serve the people of Gaza, where hundreds of thousands are displaced in often flimsy tents at the peak of winter.

PLAYERS' BOYCOTT
DELAYS BPL MATCH,
REFEREE STANDS ALONE AT TOSS

DHAKA : The toss for the Bangladesh Premier League's match between Chattogram Royals and Noakhali Express was delayed on Thursday after players refused to show up at the Sher-e-Bangla National Cricket Stadium following a humiliation by Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB) finance committee chairman Najmul Islam.

The match was scheduled for a 1:00 pm start, with the toss slated for 12:30 pm and the match alone stands alone in the middle after both captains decided not to appear for the toss.

This came after Najmul insulted the cricketers, stating that only the players stood to lose out if Bangladesh didn't play the T20 World Cup and that the BCB wouldn't compensate the players for the earnings loss.

The players felt humiliated by Najmul's remark, following which the Cricketers Welfare Association of Bangladesh (CWAB) on Wednesday announced that players would not take part in the BPL if Najmul did not resign before the opening game.

CWAB has also called a press conference at a city hotel to outline its position, after discussions between BCB officials and player representatives failed to produce a breakthrough. The talks were held just hours after CWAB had issued an ultimatum, as reported by Cricbuzz.

Islam had earlier described former captain Tamim Iqbal as an "Indian agent" after the former Bangladesh skipper suggested dialogue with the ICC and BCCI over the T20 World Cup venue row. The Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB) released a statement on Wednesday evening, saying that Islam's comments do not align with their values.

"The Bangladesh Cricket Board wishes to address recent comments made by a member of the Board that have generated concern. "The BCB reiterates that it does not endorse or take responsibility for any statement or remark made by any director or Board member unless issued formally through the Board's designated spokesperson or the Media and Communications Department. Any statements made outside these authorised channels are personal in nature and should not be interpreted as representing the views or policies of the Board," the statement said.

"The Bangladesh Cricket Board also makes it clear that it will take appropriate disciplinary action against any individual whose conduct or comments show disrespect towards cricketers or cause harm to the reputation and integrity of Bangladesh cricket," the statement added.

Tournament for the Blind 2026 from January 17

BHUBANESHWAR : The Cricket Association for the Blind in India (CABI) and Samarthanam Trust for the Disabled will host the Women's National T20 Cricket Tournament for the Blind 2026 from January 17 to 22 in Bhubaneswar, Odisha, with a total of 18 teams, grouped into five pools, competing in a high-energy battle for the championship.

The league matches will commence on January 17 and culminate in the grand final on January 22. The tournament will be formally inaugurated on January 16 with a grand opening ceremony scheduled at 7:30 PM at the Hi-Tech Medical College Auditorium. The Hon'ble Minister for Sports, Government of Odisha, along with distinguished guests from corporate organisations and political representatives, are expected to grace the occasion.

Dr. Mahantesh G. Kivadasannavar, Chairman of the Cricket Association for the Blind in India (CABI), said, "Over the past year, there has been tremendous momentum around women's cricket, and national-level tournaments play a crucial role in identifying and nurturing new talent to represent India. The Indian Women's Team's World Cup victory has made the nation proud, and all 16 players from the World Cup squad are participating in the nationals, representing their respective states. They showcased their skills at the national level before earning their place in the Indian team.

"This championship provides a vital platform for players to give their best and demonstrate

MITCHELL STARC BAGS ICC MEN'S PLAYER OF THE MONTH AWARD FOR DECEMBER

DUBAI : Australia's talismanic bowler Mitchell Starc has been named as the winner of the ICC Men's Player of the Month award for December, following his splendid performance against England in the Ashes 2025-26.

The 35-year-old was on a roll in the recently concluded Ashes series, taking 31 wickets and contributing with two half-centuries. His outstanding all-round performance earned him the Player of the Series award.

Australia's left-arm fast bowler was nominated for the Player of the Month award after he took 16 wickets and scored 139 runs across three tests in December.

Starc was proud to have won the award on the back of a successful home Ashes win.

"It's an honour to be named the ICC Player of the Month, and even more special that it came on the back of such a successful home Ashes. To have played a part in winning such an iconic series in front of our home crowd a long time," Starc said to ICC. "As a team, we've had some

Washington Sundar ruled out of NZ T20Is with rib injury; likely to report to CoE in Bengaluru

NEW DELHI : India all-rounder Washington Sundar has been ruled out of the five-match T20I series against New Zealand, as he is still recovering from a rib injury he suffered during the ODI series opener in Vadodara, sources told IANS on Thursday.

The five-match T20I series, which is set to begin on January 21 at the Vidarbha Cricket Association Stadium in Nagpur, is part of India's preparation for the T20 World Cup, which starts on February 7. It remains unclear whether the all-rounder will recover in time for the marquee tournament.

"Washington is ruled out of the T20Is against New Zealand, as he would take at least a few more weeks to recover from the injury suffered in the Vadodara ODI. It is yet to be known if he will be fully fit in time for the T20 World Cup," said a source familiar with the matter to IANS.

The source further said, "Washington is likely to report to the CoE in Bengaluru on Saturday and will know more about his recovery timeline once he reaches there."

This is the second injury blow that India have suffered for the T20I series after Tilak Varma, who underwent surgery for a groin injury, was ruled out of the first three T20Is of the five-game series. Earlier, Sundar was also ruled out of the ongoing ODI series after he reported an acute onset discomfort in his left lower rib area while bowling during the first ODI against New Zealand at the BCA Stadium last Sunday and underwent further scans.

The BCCI called up the 26-year-old Ayush Badoni as Sunder's replacement, handing him his maiden national call-up.

Suryakumar Yadav (c), Abhishek Sharma, Sanju Samson (wk), Tilak Varma (unavailable for first three games), Hardik Pandya, Shivam Dube, Axar Patel (vc), Rinku Singh, Jasprit Bumrah, Harshit Rana, Arshdeep Singh, Kuldeep Yadav, Varun Chakaravathy, Washington Sundar, Ishan Kishan (wk) outstanding performances in the last few years. The focus now is on building that momentum towards a place in next year's ICC World Test Championship Final," he added.

The Australian beat two other impressive performers in West Indies' Justin Greaves and New Zealand's Jacob Duffy.

Greaves had a memorable month in New Zealand, amassing 283 runs at an average of 56.60 over three Tests. His exceptional performance was in the first Test at Christchurch, where he scored an unbeaten 202 in the fourth innings, saving the match and helping his team draw.

While New Zealand fast bowler Duffy led the wickets in the home Test series against West Indies, taking 23 wickets at an impressive average of 15.43 over three matches. He was crucial to New Zealand's 2-0 series win, regularly challenging opposition batters with his swing and precision.

LAURA WOLVAARDT NAMED PLAYER OF
THE MONTH FOR DECEMBER AHEAD OF SHAFALI VERMA

DUBAI : South Africa's captain, Laura Wolvaardt, has bagged the Player of the Month award for December after her remarkable performance in the last month of the year 2025, which helped the team register series victories against Ireland in T20I and ODI formats.

Fresh off a commanding campaign in the ICC Women's Cricket World Cup 2025, Wolvaardt continued to showcase her brilliance, rounding off a remarkable year by registering three centuries across formats in just one month.

Wolvaardt was at her destructive best in the opening T20I, blasting an unbeaten 115 at a staggering strike rate of 205.35, an innings studded with 15 boundaries and four sixes. Her dominance carried into the ODI series, where she opened the batting and played a key role throughout. After a steady 31 in the first match, she struck back-to-back centuries, hammering 124 off 111 balls in the second ODI before finishing unbeaten on 100 in the final game to seal the whitewash.

Across the three ODIs, Wolvaardt accumulated 255 runs at a remarkable average of 127.50 and a strike rate of 111.84. In the T20I series, she scored 137 runs at a blistering strike rate of 190.27, losing her wicket only once.

This is Wolvaardt's second Player of the Month Award, having bagged the prize earlier in October 2025, and she felt happy and grateful after receiving the honour.

"I'm delighted to be named the ICC Player of the Month once again. To win it two times in three months is very special and something I'll cherish for a long time. I loved batting throughout Ireland's tour of South Africa, and it was hugely rewarding to contribute with runs across both the ODI and T20I formats," the South African said.

"With the ICC Women's T20 World Cup 2026 on the horizon, my focus is firmly on carrying this momentum forward. We've shown real progress in recent ICC events, and I'm excited about the summer ahead in England and Wales. I hope to continue playing my part and help take the team all the way," she added.

Wolvaardt beat teammate Sune Luus, who impressed with her all-round performance scoring 323 runs and picking up eight wickets across formats, in the month and November winner Shafali Verma, who scored 241 runs in five T20I games for India, to bag this honour.

Gujarat Titans to roll out Junior Titans programme in five cities
starting from Saturday

NEW DELHI : Even as Gujarat Titans (GT) kickstarted their preparations to grab the Indian Premier League (IPL) 2026 trophy through a camp in Nathdwara, the franchise is rolling out the third edition of Junior Titans, their flagship grassroots initiative starting from Saturday.

Colonel Arvinder Singh, the franchise's Chief Operating Officer (COO), said the initiative, which has engaged more than 10,000 children so far in 11 cities, will help more and more kids to get into more outdoor sporting activities.

Singh also clarified that it should not be seen as a talent hunt to unearth the next Shubman Gill, Smriti Mandhana or Harmanpreet Kaur. "It is purely aimed as a concept at motivating children - boys and girls - to come out and play, and not just play cricket. Play whatever you want, but do some physical activity. So it's not that we're not reaching out in the small cities to look for the next Shubman Gill. Certainly not - that's not our aim."

"Nor are we trying to teach them how to play cricket, nor are we telling them that you should play only cricket. We are just telling them to come out, do physical activity and play whichever sport. In doing so, we create a curator event for them in their own city, in one of the schools, where, in turn, children from various schools, both boys and girls, come."

"We encourage every school to send an equal number of boys and girls as far as possible to these events of ours, and provide those kinds of facilities there. Again, the intention is not that we're not trying to look for the next Shubman or Harman or Smriti," Singh told IANS in an exclusive conversation on Thursday.

This year, the initiative will be in five cities - Surendranagar (January 17), Morbi (January 24), Amreli (January 31), Anand (February 7), and before concluding in Ahmedabad on February 14.

"The idea is very simple to try and cover various regions of Gujarat every year. So if you kind of plot where we started from in the 2023 season, and where we are today, and what we will be covering this year, you will find that we like to go to different parts of Gujarat and not leave any part of Gujarat untouched."

"Like, at least the cities that feature in that tier one, two, three kind of nomenclature. So our intention is to cover every city in Gujarat as we move forward," added Singh.

The goal is also to engage hundreds of children with sports from an early age, especially with the gadget era taking a huge chunk of their attention. "Sport is outdoors, so come outside and play, and you need to do it. We try to explain to them why it is important for them from various aspects of physical activity, teamwork, camaraderie, or working as part of a group, etc."

"So, games are one part of it, like playing football, basketball or cricket, which we organise there. But it has also got other stuff in terms of physical activity that happens there, which you're basically trying to kind of put in the child's head that 'All right, fine, this is also important for you. It's not just enough for you to just study and play on your gadgets.' Physical activity is good for you in the overall scheme of things, and that's what we try to do," concluded Singh.

'They play incredible tennis,' Federer hails Alcaraz-Sinner rivalry ahead of Aus Open

MELBOURNE : Swiss tennis great Roger Federer returned to Melbourne Park ahead of the Australian Open and lavished praise on Carlos Alcaraz and Jannik Sinner, hailing their rivalry as one of the most exciting storylines in modern tennis.

Federer, who announced his retirement in 2022, makes his appearance at the Melbourne Park ahead of the opening ceremony of the 2026 edition of the hard-court major, six years since the Swiss star played his final tournament.

The six-time Australian Open champion will be participating in the Grand Slam's inaugural ceremony in a special 'Battle of the World No. 1s' game on January 17. He will play alongside fellow Olympic champion Andre Agassi, Australian duo Patrick Rafter and Lleyton Hewitt.

Federer arrived in Melbourne on Thursday morning and received a warm welcome from fans. The tennis icon later spoke about the Alcaraz and Sinner rivalry that has etched itself into the tennis landscape in a similar manner to Federer vs. Rafael Nadal.

The pair have won the past eight major singles titles between them and contested the final three Grand Slam title clashes of 2025, including a remarkable five-set battle at Roland Garros during which Alcaraz saved three championship points in the third set before going on to lift the title.

"The rivalry with Alcaraz and Sinner is a great one. They play incredible tennis. I think that French Open final was unreal. I think the game, not that it needed it, but it was great that we had it. I feel like for a second, for a moment, the world stood still in the sporting world and watched towards Paris what was going on in that epic fifth set because it could have ended much, much sooner, obviously, for Jannik," Federer was quoted by ATP Tour.

"Then all of a sudden it ended up in this most crazy fashion. Maybe one of the greatest games we've ever had in our sport. It's good we still live off that momentum. Then they backed it up by playing against each other in all those other finals. Everybody is trying to keep up, and they're trying to pull away. What we've seen in terms of their progression in the last years, it's been wonderful. I practised with those guys a little bit. They're incredible ball strikers. There's obviously more to come," he added.

Sinner arrives at the Australian Open this year as the two-time defending champion. Meanwhile, world No. 1 Alcaraz has the chance to become the youngest man to complete the Career Grand Slam (winning all four major titles) if he can lift his maiden trophy at Melbourne Park.
